Caught in a wicked storm at Pemberley, Mr. Darcy and Elizabeth Bennet are stranded together in a small picnic cottage.. It is a few weeks after the glorious wedding of Mr. Bingley and Jane Bennet. The happy couple have been accompanied on their wedding trip by Miss Elizabeth Bennet, and they have made a stop in Pemberley to visit Mr. Darcy. Mr. Darcy and Elizabeth have not seen each other since the wedding, and he has not found the courage to ask her yet to marry him again. She is regretting turning him down from the very first. They take a row on the lake at Mr.

and Mrs. Bingleys request for a day's entertainment when a storm blows up and forces them to shelter on a small island with a picnic cottage. When Elizabeth falls into the lake, and Mr.

Darcy rescues her, she is soaked to the bone and must get dry and warm to prevent sickness. With no one there to chaperone them, will these two passionate individuals find themselves inexplicably drawn together in a most intimate fashion? Or will they resist their baser natures until such a time as they can be married?

Passions at Pemberley details the struggle and the loving that follows! This sensual and steamy Pride and Prejudice intimate variation novella is best read by those who are 18+.
