Can a lonely governess find love a second time with the woman who broke her heart? When Amy Calvert's carriage breaks down outside the country estate of Beatrice Hartwell, she isn't sure if it's a blessing or a curse.

Beatrice once broke Amy's heart. The heavy snows force Amy to seek shelter with Beatrice through the Christmas holidays, awakening feelings Amy thought she had put aside. But the same problems which previously drove them apart still exist. Can their love bloom anew during the cold of winter or will Beatrice break her heart a second time?
