Jane's boyfriend Matthew is perfect in all ways but one-in the bedroom. Sure, their sex life is sweet and romantic, but therein lies the problem.

Jane harbors secret desires that she's afraid will turn off her vanilla lover. But finally she confides in him, introducing him to the world of non-con role play. Matthew has always believed no means no, but in ravishment fantasy, no means yes, yes, yes. He's reticent to open the door to the darker side of his sexuality, but with Jane's patient guidance, he finds he enjoys the role of aggressor. Perhaps more than he's comfortable with. The role play stirs up a host of memories he'd rather forget, leaving Matthew to wonder which is his true self-the sweet, romantic lover...or the ravisher.
