On May 26, 1978, I attended Frank Sinatra's last appearance at the Latin Casino in Cherry Hill NJ. Seated near the stage, I shot one roll of ASA 400 black and white film. It took about 25 minutes from start to finish. Sometime that summer, my friend Susan Rose developed the film and printed the photographs. For almost 38 years, these photos have been in file folders, in drawers, and for the past eight years, in my garage. Remarkably they have survived.
