In the midst of the Second World War, a wounded American soldier is taken in and cared for by a mysterious German girl, alone in a cabin in the woods. The threat of discovery and of capture is real for both of them - he as an enemy soldier and she for harboring one. And there is something that the girl is hiding, something that the American soldier cannot quite put his finger on. What is that secret? And, is it the reason she is so desperate to know the pleasures of a man one more time? Book 4 of the Forbidden Desires series by Allison Chappell.
