The Studebaker family of Houston, Texas, is settling down for dinner one night when a young orphan named Wren Rubenstein shows up on their doorstep.

Father Jonny recognizes her as the daughter of his late estranged sister, whom their abusive and religiously fanatic father disowned for an interreligious marriage. Although Jonny had disowned his sister in order to protect his children and himself from his father's wrath, he nonetheless takes in Wren. Now, her presence in the household causes both chaos and the Studebakers to reflect on their dark secrets. But Jonny must decide if he can reveal the greatest secret of them all.
