A graphic portrayal of the tactics and terror of the various front organizations involved in the Animal Rights movement.

For those not daily involved with animals through professional, scientific, sporting, livestock, or other pursuits, the tactics used by these radicals to push their views and raise money are no longer dismissed lightly. These tactics include fire-bombing, burglary and attempted murder. They include the covert infiltration of organizations with differing views-redirecting their agendas and treasuries, corporate raider style, in the process.

Written by two of the most concerned people, the authors are noted authorities in the ranks of the nation's dog fanciers.
